THE PLAIN TRUTH.

William J. Bryan is a man of facts and states the truth in plain words that all can understand. At the celebration of the anniversary of General Jackson's victory at the battle of New Orleans January 8th at Chicago, Mr. Bryan spoke as follows. Of Secretary Gage's recent proposition to commit the country to the single gold standard:

"The present Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Gage, is eminently fitted to be the instrument of the financiers in their efforts to complete the scheme commenced twenty-four years ago, and continued without interruption until the present day. He possesses a sublime faith in the superiority of money over man, and a supreme contempt for the rights, the interests and the opinions of the people at large. He knows that the gold standard was adopted in the United States without any party ever asking for it; he knows that for twenty-three years after its adoption no party ever dared to commend it; he knew that in the campaign of 1896 the party composed of bolting Democrats was the only party which dared to declare the gold standard a blessing; he knows that at the polls 99 per cent of the voters registered their opposition to a single gold standard, differing only as to the means of securing bimetalism; he knows that the President, to whose party he owes his position, sent a commission to Europe to beg other nations to help us get rid of the gold standard; he knows that the Senate and House, with scarcely a dissenting voice, appropriated $100,000 of the people's money to pay the expenses of the commission, while it was seeking relief from the gold standard; he knows that France, by joining in the demand for the international bimetalism, condemned the gold standard; he knows that the farmers, the laborers and to a large extent the manufacturers of England, desire international bimetalism; he knows that the maintenance of the gold standard means unmerited advantage to the money-owning and bond-holding class—is undeserved punishment to the vast majority of the people of this country and of the civilized world. And yet in spite of his knowledge of all these facts, he is deliberately planning to fasten the gold standard permanently upon the people of the United States. Not content with advocating a policy which places the destinies of 70,000,000 of free men in the hands of foreign financiers, and permits a few London financiers to control our standard money, he now proposes to give the National banks full and complete control of the paper money of the nation."

FRAUDULENT MONEY ORDERS.

The auditor of the Postoffice Department has discovered frauds in the money order accounts which may show a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The auditor says there are nine possible methods by which dishonest officials may defraud the Government in the money order business. Several instances have been discovered in which money orders were issued for amounts as high as $100 and were reported by the issuing postmaster at one or two dollars each. The number of frauds of that character perpetrated can only be surmised, as the practice of checking money order accounts in the auditor's office was changed, and the orders were audited by stubs or coupons and not by the orders themselves. The number of frauds perpetrated in the three years in which that system was in vogue will probably never be known, as it would take one hundred men a year or more to examine the hundreds of millions of orders issued during the years the orders were audited by stubs sent from the issuing office. There is no way by which the number of fraudulent orders can be ascertained, except by auditing the orders, and as that would take years and involve a heavy expense, it is not likely to be adopted.

The result of the ballot for United States Senator in the Ohio Legislature yesterday is probably satisfactory to the Hannanites and the great boodler himself, in a measure, yet they cannot feel overly proud of the victory. Hanna is assured of another term in the Senate if he lives, but he must certainly feel how utterly he is despised by the people of the country generally and his own home people particularly.

He has gained a victory, but this fact will not prevent the people from believing that he gained it through bulldozing and dishonest means. If he has any of the feelings of an ordinary mortal he must certainly feel a certain shame when thinking over the battle of the past two weeks. And, if he does not feel that shame now, he surely will when he meets his associates in the Senate, or sees people in the Senate galleries point him out as the Senator from Ohio.

The lynching of the two Seminole Indians in Indian Territory has stirred up that tribe and it begins to look like trouble. The frequency of lynchings and the delay of the law in such cases as Durrant has a tendency to convince an ordinary observer that its majesty is a farce.

GREAT ON DOG SALMON.

But When It Came to Tyhee, the Razor-Back Overmatched Himself.

Fish catching, pigs are as common along the Puget sound waters as king-fishers are on an eastern trout stream. Why, I had an old razorback hog when I was out there that I'll bet could go out any day in any of the streams that tumble into Puget sound and catch more 15 pound salmon in 20 minutes than the best fisherman on the whole Jersey coast can kill bluefish in a whole day.

I owned quite a number of sawmills on the sound, and although there were a good many crack razorback fish catchers there I stood ready any time to back mine with my last mill against any other one, bar none, that could be brought on. That hog as a fisherman was simply a wonder, and he never caught anything but salmon. They were salmon that probably you and I would not care to eat, for they were a trifle weak and slightly under the weather—maybe the hookbill, but more than likely the dog salmon. And hogs are not the only four footed fishers for these out there either, not by a big sight. I have seen, within a distance of less than a mile along one of those Puget sound streams, half a dozen bears, a family or two of wildcats, a whole colony of raccoons, not a few wolves, besides a dozen or more razorback hogs, to say nothing of a score or so of eagles, all engaged in the sport of fishing for dog salmon.

But, speaking of that particular razorback salmon catcher of mine, he got so expert at landing dog salmon and hookbills and humpies and similar kinds that he got the big head and thought he'd try his hand, or rather his snout, on a run of fresh tyloes or chinooks. These are the boss salmon, and the nice, yellow, savory chaps you get in the cans they ship from out there. When he is feeling good, and that is pretty much all the time, you might as well take a fall out of your sawmill as fool with a tyhee. He doesn't think a thing of weighing 50 pounds, and he travels in processions so big that along in June, when he is going up the streams to the spawning beds, you can almost walk across a stream on the backs.

That hog of mine got it into his head that he was out out for better things than yanking weak and tired dog salmon out of water and that tyhee were about his size. I saw him making his way one day very leisurely to a stream that ran toward the sound just back of my mill, and I thought it was a little queer, for there wasn't much in his foraging line in that direction. I was busy, though, and paid no attention to the matter. A minute or two later I heard the hog give a loud squeal of distress, and looking in that direction, I saw him in the water, struggling to get away from something that had hold of him. I ran to give him some help and got there just in time to see the razorback jerked head first under the water and disappear beneath the surface like a stone.

A dead tyhee, maybe a 20 pounder, lay half on the shore and half in the water. Marks on it showed that the hog must have captured it. But tyhees weren't invalid dog salmon, and a couple of the captured fish's traveling companions, in my opinion, had rushed to its assistance. Aid was too late and vengeance took its place. The avenging tyhees had just reached out and taken Mr. Razorback by the neck, and, in spite of his resistance, had logged him in and drowned him. He floated down half an hour or so later and was a little the worst looking pig I have ever seen. If he had been butchered, skinned, scraped and half dressed, he couldn't have looked more torn up. He was the only razorback I ever knew or heard of that tried to fish for tyhees. I was sorry to lose him, for I was counting on making a good deal of money on him, backing him in his line against all comers, but his ambition was fatal to all my hopes.—New York Sun.

Rich Man, Poor Man.

A short time ago a man who had seen better days approached several benevolent looking gentlemen at a well known hotel, asking for a meal. Each one repulsed him, until finally a reporter, who had just been paid off, invited him to have a snack with him. It was a good snack, too, and it took all the reporter's money, but he said it was a satisfaction to him to know that the poor man had one square meal at last. The incident reminded me of the rich man who told the poor man to work. He said he couldn't get work, but still the rich man said, "You must work." Some time after the rich man fell into the water and called to the poor man to rescue him. "Swim," said the poor man. "But I can't swim," said the rich man. "Well," said the poor man; "you must swim." When a man asks alms, it is always well to consider that some day the situation may be reversed, and then the man who can't swim must drown.—Boston Traveler.

Universal cook and heating stoves, and cheaper grades sold at cost to reduce stock at Lange & Schmitt's.

Billy Zwisler, the popular representative of Brown Bros., San Francisco, spent the day in Reno yesterday.

Three or four cases of scarletina are reported in town. Prompt measures should be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

The lunches at the Granite Saloon cannot be excelled and the beer is served ice cold. A choice stock of wines by the bottle or gallon.

The housewife's delight, hot water without water backs, no cost and fuel saved, and no more chilled ovens. See them at Gennessy & Savage's new store.

We have many pieces of furniture suitable for Holiday Gifts. We invite inspection of goods and comparison of prices, at the Reno Furniture Store near iron bridge, Virginia St.

H. Riter and James Kerr endeavor to make the Elite a popular resort and succeed in doing so. Both are excellent caterers and thoroughly understand their business. Call on them.

A worthy man wants work of any kind. He is in Reno in the hope that the climate will restore the health of his wife who is very ill. The Rev. Mr. Flawith will give information if desired.

Dr. F. T. Thompson will be at his residence, corner 5th and Halston streets, for one week, where he is prepared to do any work in the dental line. A free back will run to his house. Telephone connection.

In the eatable or drinkable line, one cannot do better than consult Block & Clausen of the Washoe Lunch Counter. Jim Christiansen can serve a hot or cold lunch, tamales or fancy dinner with all the science of a French cuisine.

It was reported last night that one of the Lund children were playing with other children in the neighborhood yesterday. As a case of diphtheria is reported at the Lund residence, the Board of Health should look into the matter.

The offscourings of some of the neighboring towns have centered in Reno. Several of the business men talked the situation over yesterday and unless certain individuals "move on" within a reasonable time something will drop.

Thyes makes a specialty of his small order trade and furnishes the very best of goods at reasonable prices in quantities to suit. Liquors for medicinal purposes as well as fine wines for parties, weddings or receptions can always be found in his stock.

Last night's weather report says, "warmer, increasing cloudiness and probably snow." Glory hallelujah, bursted hot water boilers, frozen pipes and grinning plumbers are not conducive to the amiability of the gentle housewife nor to the peace of mind of the Lords of Creation.

As it seems winter is just about to begin S. Emrich has concluded to make a clearance sale of his winter stock at greatly reduced prices. Jackets, capes, ladies and childrens underwear, flannels, dress goods and many other articles are on the list of the cut, and those intending to make purchases will make a great saving by calling at once, while his stock is still complete.

A public meeting will be held at the Methodist Church on Friday evening next to discuss the most practical methods of helping the boys and young men of Nevada to lives of sobriety and honor. Dr. J. E. Stubbs, Rev. Frederic C. Lee, Hon. E. C. Norcross, Judge Currier, Rev. F. Flawith and others will deliver short addresses. A question box will be a feature of the meeting. Everybody asked to come.

I have just received a complete and well selected stock of gent's furnishings, goods, underwear, overalls, socks, suspenders, handkerchiefs, ties, etc., which I guarantee to be equal if not better than any in the town, which I will sell at prices that defy competition. My stock of domestic and imported cigars and tobaccos is complete in every particular, comprising such brands as the Navy, Carl Dunder and Royal in the 5-cent goods, and El Belmont, Sanchez, etc., De Vallens, Internations, Hotel Brunswick, General Arthur and many others in the imported goods. Call and be satisfied. Free employment office in connection with the store.

SEATTLE BOOMING.

The Great Rush to Seattle Has Already Set In.

ARMY OF ARGONAUTS.

Thousands Destined for the Northern Gold Fields Will Never Reach Them Because of Inadequate Transportation Facilities—The Greatest Gold Stampede in the World's History—Why Seattle and Washington is Prosperous.

The scenes in this busy town nowadays remind old Nevadans of the good old Comstock days, when Virginia City seemed to be the Mecca of all humanity, and the universal impulse was to "get there." To be "in it" just now one must be either going to Alaska or doing business with those who are.

Whether by her extensive advertising, by her location, or by chance, it is a settled fact that Seattle is the point at which nine out of every ten semi-Arctic argonauts will bid civilization farewell and plunge into the wilderness of snow and ice that lies under the rays of the midnight sun. How large a number there will be of those adventurous spirits who will make their start between now and next autumn is a question. Seattle expected and prepared last fall for a crowd; within the past month she has awakened to the fact she will have an army, and to-day, if indications amount to anything, she will soon be overrun by a multitude of gold-hunters.

Seattleites were laughed at when they gave expression, a few months ago, to their belief that 20,000 people would this year dare fate by attempting the jagged passes and treacherous waters that lie between human avarice and Arctic gold. But to-day it is a patent fact that they were not sanguine enough in their anticipations. A year ago the Easterner thought the Seattleite was building too much on the future; to-day the Seattleite is staggered by the Easterners' stories of the business that this city must handle.

There is an average of a steamer a day now leaving this port for Dyea and Skagway, the coast ends of the principal winter trails into Interior Alaska, and both of these places are booming, bustling towns, jammed with prospectors preparing for the crucial part of their journey. Every boat goes out with a full passenger list and cargo. In fact, there is now going on almost as large a northern movement as that which last fall was termed a "rush," but in the surety of a so much larger movement in the near future people here pay little attention to it.

It must be borne in mind that the travel now going on is only of those who intend to winter in the gold fields in order to be there in the spring—what may be termed the reconnoitering party of the grand army that will invade Alaska overland between February and July. They belong to the class that hope to gain wealth by purchase rather than by discovery—the aristocracy of argonauts, the men who propose to make their money multiply itself. Where there is one man of means who will brave the hardships of Alaska to acquire riches, reason dictates there are a hundred poor men who will do so. Takes that as a basis of calculation and see what it leads to: There are now over two hundred a day of the first-named class leaving this port. At that rate 6,000 will have left in the next thirty days; multiply that by a hundred (poor men) and there results an army of 600,000. This estimate may seem preposterous, but there are level-headed conservative men from the East going into business here every day in anticipation of the Northern exodus even exceeding that number.

There are now in process of construction two tramways over the passes, and a wagon road is about finished. The promoters of these enterprises concede that the limit of their facilities will be the transportation of 20,000 men and their outfits during the coming season and they expect to turn away twice as much business as they will be able to handle.

If but 20,000 men can get over the passes to the goldfields, how many ocean-going steamers will it require to carry the rest of the multitude to the only other entrance—the Yukon river? And how many river boats from the mouth to the source of that mighty stream? Well, there are now available on this coast and coming from the Atlantic and Europe 20 ocean-going steamers. The fastest of them can make but three round trips between Seattle and the Yukon delta, and their average capacity will not exceed 500 persons. Present facilities will accommodate 30,000 people. To carry that number up the Yukon during the open season would require 150 river boats. There are now about half a dozen such boats. Seattle shipyards are working night and day constructing more, and will probably turn out fifty all told. San Francisco, Portland and other coast cities combined will not build as many more.

Now in view of these facts, "where (in the words of the Georgia statesman) are we at?" As far as human ingenuity has been able to provide, but 20,000 people can get over the passes and but 30,000 to the mouth of the Yukon, and of the latter not one-half can get any further. Divide the number estimated to be headed Alaskanward by six and we have 100,000 who will try to reach the interior of that country. What are the 500,000 who will be shut out going to do? Will they freeze on northern shores or come back to civilization? Seattleites are figuring on the latter.

And we of Seattle know that nowhere in civilization is there a more promising country than the State of Washington to invest, prosper and abide in, and the tocsin of Seattle always has been, is and always will be "What helps Washington helps Seattle." Nature designed her to be, her wide awake citizens named her, and destiny will prove her the "Queen City of the Pacific." She is not jealous of other towns' growth, or envious of their prosperity—she cannot afford to be, for their growth and prosperity are measured by hers. That's why Seattle is booming and why her boom is genuine, healthy and continuous.

I had intended to write solely upon Seattle's increased population and business, but in my desire not to appear extravagant I have only reached the why of the increase, and as this article is already too long must forego my original intention until another time.

Seattle, January 8, 1898.

The Result of the Court Martial.

The Journal is in receipt of General Orders No. 10, giving the charges, specifications and findings of the late General Court Martial in regard to the offenses of the various officers and privates of the Nevada National guard against whom charges had been preferred.

Newton I. Morgan, second Lieutenant of Battery A, is charged with mutiny, conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline. His sentence was dismissal from the military service of the State.

Sergeants C. A. Shartzer, J. Cox, J. Kitson and B. Harris, were sentenced to pay a fine of $10 each and to be publicly reprimanded by the Commander-in-Chief. Corporal J. Minnewood to be fined $5 and a public reprimand and a number of privates to be publicly reprimanded all having been charged and found guilty of offenses similar to those against Lieutenant Morgan.

Second Lieutenant C. B. Gilson of Company C, charged with conduct to the prejudice of good order, and to which a plea of guilty was entered, was sentenced to be publicly reprimanded by the Commander-in-Chief. Lieutenant Gilson refused to attend target practice if the scores were to be published in the Gazette, hence his trouble.

Private F. Wartman of Company C, also charged with conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline, for refusing to leave his business to attend target practice was dismissed from the service.

Captain P. R. Coryell of Company A, N. N. G., was charged with several offenses against military law such as conduct unbecoming an officer, appearing in a saloon in uniform and in a state of intoxication, conduct to the prejudice of good order, disobedience of orders, etc. He was found guilty of all but one charge and sentenced to dismissal from the service.

Governor Sadler as Commander-in-Chief approved the findings of the court martial in each individual instance and the sentences will be imposed.

Board of Pardons, January Term.
The Board of Pardons met yesterday pursuant to adjournment, all the members being present.

Peter Federich convicted of assault with intent to kill in Washoe County and sentenced to five years imprisonment was pardoned by unanimous vote very many of the business men and leading citizens of Reno, including the District Attorney who prosecuted him, petitioned to have him pardoned.

Thomas Barnes, sentenced in Nye County in March 1891, was pardoned on the ground of good behavior.

John Trolson, convicted of embezzlement in Storey County, and discharged from State Prison, January 29, 1897, was restored to citizenship.

E. S. Kendrick, sentenced from Elko County in 1889, for murder in the second degree, was refused pardon.

Installation of Officers.

The following officers were installed at a regular meeting of Nevada Lodge No. 5, A. O. U. W., held last evening. Deputy Grand Master John J. Quinn performing the ceremonies of installation.

O. P. Cross, P. M. W.; H. Werner, M. W.; F. C. Savage, Foreman; E. L. Seitz, Overseer; E. W. Taylor, Recorder; F. Molke, Financier; J. J. Quinn, Receiver; F. P. Dann, Guide; O. I. Albee, Inside Watch; F. Rittenger, Outside Watch.

BREVITIES.

L. Jude, representing L. Dinkelspiel and Company, San Francisco, spent the day here yesterday.

N. J. Foxwell of Verdi paid the Journal office a pleasant call yesterday. He spent the day in Reno.

The ladies of the Congregational Church will give a New England dinner in the basement of the church on Thursday, the 19th inst. See 50-cent column.

A sale of pictures, China and glassware, bric-a-brac and music will be held at the store of W. Sanders in the Opera House commencing Tuesday at 10 o'clock. See 50-cent ad.

Muller and Stumpf are constantly supplying orders for that most healthful beverage, Pabst beer, also malt extract. A full line of fine wines and liquors are always in stock.

Joe Ziegler after a week's confinement to his room with a severe cold is again on deck at H. J. Thyes. Joe is an expert caterer and mixologist and when absent from his post he is always missed.

If the cold weather continues General Powning proposes to scrape the ice on the river above the dam and give the young people a fine skating rink and the old ones a chance to tell how they used to skate.

The prospects of good skating has an invigorating effect on the young people. Many of the old stiffs do not require the cold weather to get "on skates" and the invigorating effect is nearly as satisfactory.

General Powning was out yesterday with a spanking team of grays and a fancy cutter. His imagination for the time being swelled him up to the size of a Vanderbilt on the Long Branch driveway at New York.

The Mint Appropriation Won.

A telegram from Washington to the Journal late yesterday afternoon gave the information that the Carson Mint appropriation was saved. The brief telegram did not give any particulars, but it indicated that Congressman Newlands had won his fight on the mint appropriation in the House and that his previous action in Committee of the Whole had been approved. This will be good news for Carson particularly, as well as the whole State and proves that Nevada's Congressman is up and doing and his efforts in behalf of the State are meeting with substantial recognition.

A Long Sentence.

Williston Palmer is the name of a white man against whom there are sentences of 200 years in the Georgia penitentiary. Palmer was originally sent up for 11 years from south Georgia for burglary. Shortly afterward, while working in the mines of Deade county, he attempted, with other convicts, to escape, and in the melee that followed he killed two of the guards. He was tried some time ago for the killing of the first guard and got 90 years. He was then put on trial for the killing of the other man and got 99 years more.—Exchange.

Get Ready For a Storm.

Superintendent Wright of this division sent the following bulletin along the line last evening: "There is a heavy blizzard coming in this p. m. and snow is falling in the valley. Get ready for a storm." Special observations were made at the weather stations at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and all indications pointed to a severe storm. The barometer was falling rapidly last night.

For Local Consumption.

The Reno Water Company is putting up a fine lot of ice to supply the local demand this year. It is estimated that 17,000 tons can be put up from the reservoirs.
